Abstract

General Secretary Xi Jinping stressed at the mobilization meeting of Party's history learning and education: "we must combine the learning of Party's history with summing up experience, observing reality, and promoting work, transform the learning results into work motivation and effect. This paper set forth the concrete meaning of "I do practical things for the masses" from three aspects, and put forward action measures for solidly promoting practical things and seeing practical results, and promote the further deepening and practice of Party's history learning and education.

Keywords

Party's History Learning and Education; Learning History and Practice; Doing Practical Thing; Action Measures.

1. Introduction

General Secretary Xi Jinping stressed at the mobilization meeting of Party's history learning and education: "we must combine the learning of Party's history with summing up experience, observing reality, and promoting work, transform learning results into work motivation and effect, and prevent learning and work from being "double skin". "[1] Carrying out "I do practical things for the masses" practice activities is the important contents of Party's history learning and education, and the important content of practicing the party's fine traditions, original mission, and fundamental aim.

2. Improve Standing Position and Deeply Understand the Deep Meaning of "I Do Practical Things for the Masses"

Thought determines action. In order to complete the "I do practical things for the masses" practice activities, we must first answer the following three questions to understand the far-reaching significance of this practice activity [2].

1. Do practical things for "who"? It is the masses; this is the starting point and foot of all work. We must truly turn the difficulties and pain points of the masses into the happiness points of the masses, and transform the work effect into the masses' work and life motivation through practical activities.

2. What is "practical things"? One is that the project should be "realistic." Doing practical projects cannot be routine work, it cannot be routine affair, nor is it simply helping money and things, it must be through in-depth research to discover the difficulties and pain points of the masses, the project should be concrete, we must resolutely curb "paper benefit and superficial effort", seek truth from facts, do one's best, and act according to one's ability; the second is that the content should be "good". Practical things are not equal to "important matters", small matters and details are often more closely related to the daily life and interests of the masses, the lively display can't solve real problems, the counterproductive formalism of "increasing burden and degrading quality" is against the original intention of the activity. Regardless of important matters or small matters things, it is a good thing to be welcomed by the masses. We must keep a foothold in our own work and do practical things in the hearts of the masses.

3. "Who" will do the practical thing? "I do practical things for the masses" should highlight the word "I". One is that responsibilities lie in "I". As the "key minority", party members and leading cadres should take on responsibilities, organize and carry out "I do practical things for the masses" practical activities with "if I can't do it, who can?" political understanding; the second is style lies in "I". Party members and leading cadres must give full play to the leading and demonstration role, take the lead in learning the communists' aim and awareness of serving the people wholeheartedly, carry forward the work style of work diligently, take the lead in doing thing, personally deploy, set an example by personally taking part, and push down to implement; the third is that the effect lies "I." Party members and leading cadres must be brave to respond to the problems concerned by the masses, focus on changes and refine the implementation of measures, come up with practical, effective, and grounded methods, deepen and be practical thing, and use visible and tangible changes, as well as the approval and support of the masses test the effect of practical activities.

3. Make Solid Progress, and Achieve Practical Results with Targeted Effort

People's livelihood interests are no trifles, and every branch always involves feeling. Regardless of the importance of the matter, if it is the matter of the masses, it must be actively responded to and implemented actively. For leading cadres, this is not only a key task, but also a practical test. In the early stage, "head up" to find problems and apply for practical projects, which test the work style and responsibility. Whether the completion effect of the various projects is good or not, and the reputation is good or bad, which tests the work ability and level. Only by checking the list of practical projects and improving and put into effect one by one, ensuring that organizational leadership is in place, research and reflection are in place, actions are in place, and supervision and improvement are in place, can we ensure that "I do practical things for the masses" achieve solid results [3].

1. Organization and leadership are in place. Preparedness ensures success, and unpreparedness spells failure. It is necessary to adhere to the political position, consolidate the main responsibilities, and strengthen the work coordination; the leading department and the itinerant guidance group must effectively assume the supervision responsibility, and do a good job in supervision, guidance, feedback and implementation of rectification; the main responsible comrades must earnestly assume the responsibilities of the first responsible person, take the initiative to command, determine the responsible person, specific tasks, promotion measures and time nodes of each activity, so as to grasp the direction and seek the overall situation; specific staff must have responsibilities in mind, work in their eyes, and work vigorously. The work pattern of grade-by-grade and level-by-level implementation is consolidated through work projectization of work and project list, and list responsibility.

2. Research and reflection are in place. Without investigation and research, there is no right to speak, and if the investigation and research is not deep or solid, there is no right to speak. It is necessary to see the facts and investigate problems through the sinking of the grassroots front line, symposiums, and solicitation of opinions, etc., and build "I do practical things for the masses" practical activity list. What needs to be stressed is that research and reflection work only has starting point and no end. First, all list projects must implement project dynamic management, so as to grasp the latest public feeling and public opinion in time, add key problems, solve emergencies, and strive to find shortcomings and weaknesses, make the root causes of difficult problems clear, and implement responsibilities in place; the second is to learn, study, and practice, guide practice with advanced theories, implement precise policies, carry out deep research with scientific methods, and use deep reflection, summary and experience to find gaps, realize the simultaneous progress of "learning, research, and practice", resonate, and effectively promote the "I do practical things for the masses" practical activities to the side.

3. Actions are in place. Thousand words are not better to roll up sleeves and work harder. Only solid action can answer the mandatory question "I do practical things for the masses". One is to start with things around the masses, change from the problems that the masses care about, invest true feelings and real intention, and promote the fine style of seeking truth and hard work; the second is to insist on starting from reality and closely combine practice activities with the overall promotion of the basic work of the unit, so achieve scrambling two hand, correcting two and promoting two; the third is to act solidly, seek practical results, and refrain from formalism and bureaucracy, do one's best and act according to one's ability, ensure the effect of practical activities is direct to the end.

To carry out Party's history learning and education, we must grasp the key of "doing practical things", apply what we have learned, and unite knowledge and action, strive to earnestly transform the knowledge and laws that we have learned into the ability to solve the difficulties encountered and deal with risks and challenges in "I do practical things for the masses", and greet the hundredth anniversary of the Party.
